About the event:

We would like to invite you to participate in a free of charge event aimed at presenting the educational achievements of the projects implemented by the Centre for European Educational Initiatives at the Academy of Business and Health Sciences. In the face of a changing reality, the need to adapt teaching methods to the requirements of the present day is increasingly recognised. One of the leading needs is the necessity to shape transversal competences, such as decision-making or negotiation skills, which are useful both in everyday life and in most professions. We will show you how to use building blocks and puzzles to improve the above-mentioned competences.
